DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 24-27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Desplace '105 in view of Laz "The Six Levels of a Happy Marriage" and Sherin '106. Desplace discloses a system for enabling communication between two parties containing most of the elements of the claims including, a set of instructions (col. 3, lines 9-11) as required by claim 24, a portable object to be disposed at a location selected for the two or more parties (col. 1, lines 44-46) as required by claim 24. A portable object being a sheet, as required by claim 26, is described in col. 2, lines 56-59.

Desplace fails to teach a script and package as required by claims 24 and 27. However Laz discloses a system for communicating between two parties which teaches providing a script including a plurality of phrases corresponding to the beginning of a respective statement (page 17, questions entitled "How do I feel...?"). Sherin discloses a system for fostering cooperative skill and communication skills which teaches that it is known to provide a portable package for storage of materials associated with the system (see abstract, element 12). Therefore it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art, at the time of the claimed invention, to provide the system of Desplace with a script including a plurality of phrases corresponding to the beginning of a respective statement for the purpose of sharing your feelings and growing with one another, especially since the system of Desplace focuses on communication through expression of feelings through messages to each of the participants involved. It would have been further obvious to provide a portable package with the system of Desplace for the purpose of storage.

Regarding claims 25, it would have been an obvious matter of design choice to utilize rug as a portable object, since applicant has not disclosed that the use of a rug as a portable object solves any stated problem or is for any particular purpose and it appears that the invention would perform equally well with the portable object of Desplace, especially since applicants clearly state that the portable object can be any object (page 6, lines 9 and 28-30).

Claims 32, 34-37 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Desplace '105 in view of Sherin '106. Desplace discloses a system for enabling communication between two parties containing most of the elements of the claims including, a set of instructions (col. 3, lines 9-11) as required by claim 32, a portable object to be disposed at a location selected for the two or more parties (col. 1, lines 44-46) as required by claim 32. A portable object being a sheet, as required by claim 36, is described in col. 2, lines 56-59.

Desplace fails to teach a package as required by claims 32 and 34. Sherin discloses a system for fostering cooperative skill and communication skills which teaches that it is known to provide a portable package for storage of materials associated with the system (see abstract, element 12). Therefore it would have been further obvious to provide a portable package with the system of Desplace for the purpose of storage.

Regarding claims 35 and 37, it would have been an obvious matter of design choice to utilize rug as a portable object or to utilize a soft and pliable object as a portable object, since applicant has not disclosed that the use of a rug or a soft and pliable object as a portable object solves any stated problem or is for any particular purpose and it appears that the invention would perform equally well with the portable object of Desplace, especially since applicants clearly state that the portable object can be any object (page 6, lines 9 and 28-30).

Claim 32 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Laz "The Six Levels of a Happy Marriage" in view of Sherin '106. Laz discloses a system for enabling communication between two parties containing most of the elements of the claims including with respect to claim 32, a set of instructions (considered to be the booklet), a portable object is considered to be the sheet of paper on which the letter (as described on page 17 would be written on).

Laz lacks the teaching of a container for packaging, as required by claim 32. However, Sherin discloses a system for fostering cooperative skill and communication skills which teaches that it is known to provide a portable package for storage of materials associated with the system (see abstract, element 12). Thusly, it would have been further obvious to provide a portable package with the system of Laz for the purpose of storage.

Claim 33 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Laz "The Six Levels of a Happy Marriage" and Sherin '106, as stated above, and further in view of Lui et al '696. Laz, as modified by Sherin, discloses all the elements of the claims, as stated above, including a first statement describing an action taken by one of the parties (page 17, "...when you say No or We'll see") and a second statement describing a feeling on the part of the speaker (page 17, "How do I feel when...") as required by claim 33.

However Laz fails to explicitly teach a third statement describing a request on the part of the speaker as required by claim 33. Lui discloses a device for aiding communication which teaches that it is known to incorporate a statement describing a request on the part of the speaker in relation to an emotional feeling (element 172, and page 4, last 5 lines of paragraph 0039).

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 24-27 and 32-37 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
